

A 45-year-old male presents with burning pain in the upper abdomen, particularly between meals and at night. The patient reports relief with antacids and worsening of symptoms with spicy foods and stress.